VINTAGE

The weather conditions made 2019 a challenging year for our winegrowers. A relatively mild winter and early spring were followed by a wet and cool April and May. After the flowering of the vines, which was not until June, the weather changed and it became hot and dry. In late summer, some rain and below-average temperatures delayed the ripening of the grapes. Harvesting the healthy grapes began in early September and continued until the end of October.

VINIFICATION

The first blush of pigment is allowed to color the must before part of it is drained off to be fermented at cool temperatures as a rosé wine.

TASTING NOTES

- light pink-ruby in color
- delicately fruity, reminiscent of raspberries and wild cherries
- fresh and juicy on the palate

RECOMMENDATION

This wine pairs well with heavier appetizers, as well as fish and white meats. It is a great summer wine.
